

SEASON OF PHOTOGRAPHY IN SCOTLAND

APRIL - SEPTEMBER 2015

IPS Season of Photography 2015

THE 2015 SEASON OF PHOTOGRAPHY is an umbrella title for a series of lively exhibitions and events taking place at multiple venues throughout Scotland from mid-April to the end of September 2015.

ILLUMINATING the wealth of activity around photography in Scotland, the Season includes exhibitions at the main photography centres, as well as regional museums, galleries and venues geographically spread. A unique feature is the variety of self-organised events, artists' platforms, and festivals occurring under this all-embracing initiative.

THE AIM of the Season is to highlight, celebrate and promote photography. From the historical innovations of the 1840s to the digital explorations of 2015, The Season offers something for everyone and tells multiple stories about the diverse ways in which photography is used as a creative tool.

THE 2015 SEASON is an initiative of the IPS (INSTITUTE FOR PHOTOGRAPHY IN SCOTLAND), a consortium that was established in 2013. Membership is comprised of representatives from the National Galleries of Scotland, The University of Glasgow, The University of St Andrews, Street Level Photoworks, Glasgow and Stills, Edinburgh. Our goal is to raise awareness of, and enable engagement with, both historical and contemporary photography in Scotland through communication and collaboration. The Season is the first public outcome of this. The IPS is funded through the generosity of its membership partners and gifts-in-kind.

Other information and activities will be added to our website during the course of the Season.
